Tutorial: Tradition 11 as presented by Diana: two separate parts to this tradition:

1. Public policy: Our whole public relations policy then is based on attraction rather than promotion.
2. Maintain personal anonymity: No member ought to describe himself in full view of the general public as a member of AA, even for the most worthy purpose.

This tradition is a constant reminder that personal ambition has no place in AA.

When carrying the message, we must take the "I" out of the message and become merely an example of the power of AA. This kind of anonymity is humility in action. We must keep our actions on the service plane instead of seeking any kind of personal accolade or notoriety.

Nicole will read Tradition 12th.
